

The sexually endangered child

Continuity and change in a social problem

Michael Schetsche

Translated from

Das "sexuell gefährdete kind" Kontinuität und Wandel eines sozialen Problems.

Centaurus-Verlagsgesellschaft. Pfaffenweiler 1993

The author, Michael Schetsche, studied political science at the Free University of Berlin. Since 1988, he has been an active scientific collaborator at the Institute of Empirical and Applied Sociology at the University of Bremen. He received his Ph.D. in political science in 1992. He has already published several papers on the subject of sexual politics.

This work, with some minor alterations, was presented – under the title "The 'Sexually At-Risk Child' : An Examination of Changes in the Social Discourse Regarding the Relationship Between Childhood and Sexuality, " as a dissertation to the Political Science Ph.D. Committee of the University of Bremen. The evaluators were Prof. Rudiger Lautmann and Prof. Gunnar Heinsohn. The Ph.D. examination took place on December 14, 1992.

This empirical study reconstructs the specialist view of the relationship between childhood and sexuality over the last forty years. Confluences of themes and underlying interpretational patterns are explained in terms of interactions between social and sexual-political developments, as well as the interests of the various social protagonists involved.

Table of Contents

Note: Page numbers refer to the original book; in this translation they are enclosed in [brackets]. You can determine the approximate translation page number by dividing by 1.47, i.e., book page 198 would be about page 134 in the translation.

Introduction: Of Seeking and Finding	1
Part One: The Inner Chamber:
The Child at Risk from Him/Herself	17
1 First Historical Digression: From a Theological to a Medical Problem	18
2 The Perception of Danger in the Federal Republic	38
3 Two Dominant Interpretations of Onanism [Masturbation]	41
4 On the Harmfulness of Onanism	50
5 Strategies to Combat It	56
6 Two Divergent Interpretations	64
7 Results I: Onanism—Combating Dogmas	70
Part Two: The Siren Song: The Child At Risk from the Media		81
1 Second Historical Digression: The Summoned Censor	82
2 The Media-Danger in Specialist Journals	97
3 The Theory of Harm: Stimulated Drives and Moral Decay	107
4 Responsibility: The Source of the Danger is People	115
5 Protection: Collective Measures Take Precedence	117
6 Results II: The Basic Principles of Youth Media - Protection	122
Part Three: Big Subject to Little Subject: Children Endangered by Sexual Contacts with Adults		127
1 Third Historical Digression: 'Lewdness with Children'	128
2 From 'Serious Lewdness' to 'Sexual Abuse'	141
3 Concept I: Lewdness -- The Provoked Sex Crime	144
3.1 The Endangering Situation	144
3.2 Perpetrators and Other Responsible Parties	149
3.3 The Child: Guilty Due to Participation	155
3.4 Endangered Psycho-Sexual Development	160
3.5 Protective Measures: Castration and Control	162
4 Concept II: Abuse -- Everyday Male Violence	169
4.1 Gender as Risk-Factor	170
4.2 Patriarchal Violence-Structures	175
4.3 The 'Girl-Child': Innocent Victim	179
4.4 Harm Symptomatology	185
4.5 Detecting Abuse Trumps Its Prevention	187
5 Results III: Principles of Contact—Prevention	192

5.1 The 'Sexual Offense Concept'	194
5.2 The 'Abuse Concept' ‘	198
Part Four: Myth-Busting: The Sexually At-Risk Child as Social Problem	205
1 Problem Discourse and Discourse Problem	206
1.1 Constructing a Social Problem	206
1.2 Courses, Interest Groups, Strategies	213
1.3 Risk-Models	221
2 Characteristics of the Traditional Endangerment-Model	232
3 Origin of the Traditional Endangerment-Model	232
3.1 Four Theoretical Approaches	233
3.2 History of a Social Problem.....	242
4 The Traditional Risk-Model in the Federal Republic	251
5 The Abuse-Model	270
5.1 On the 'History' of the Abuse—Model	271
5.2 Interest Groups and Their 'Desires'	275
6 Results IV: Counter-Propositions	285
Concluding Remarks: The Sexually At Risk Child: A Never-ending Story?	295
Sources, Bibliography, and Endnotes [F--]	305